Salvation _____ Jesus.

Making _____ our _____.

How then shall we live?

Notes:

From Jason & Erin Bergman (missionaries we support) March 7

Hello Everyone,

..... Your prayers are powerful and are not going unheard. We have heard so many stories of love and goodness amidst the heartbreak and devastation. Camp Falcon Rock has opened their doors to refugees entering Romania. Early this morning we received our first group. Here is a copied Instagram post update on what is happening:

This morning we received 13 refugees who are international students that were studying in Odessa, Ukraine. The day after the war started they fled to Moldova. They had to wait over 7 hours at the border standing in freezing temperatures with no food in order to get out of Ukraine. They spent the last week in Moldova determining their next move. The pastor from the international church many of them attended contacted us about having them come to the camp. After a couple days worth of texts and phone calls we were able to organize a bus from Moldova to Camp Falcon Rock. They are such a sweet group of young people that have experienced a lot in this last week. Please be praying for them as they rest and recover and determine what their options are. They are not sure how to continue with their studies as they could not get transcripts or information from the schools in Ukraine but they are trying to figure out where in Europe they could transfer to finish their degrees and not lose all their years of studying. We'll be helping them navigate that over the next little while.

The prediction is that there will be a second wave of refugees coming into Romania within the next week. We will continue to keep Camp Falcon Rock's doors open to these refugees coming in.

Current prayer requests:

- Safe evacuation of the Ukrainian people and Internationals into bordering countries
- For families that have been separated or lost loved ones because of the war (I cannot imagine)
- For the people who are sick and cannot leave Ukraine or receive proper medical care right now (the stories about this break my heart)
- For people to experience the heart of God as He cares for those in crisis
- For the refugees God has placed in front of us at Camp Falcon Rock, that the community of the Camp and the Hungarian Baptist Convention of Romania could love and serve them well.

We will continue to keep you updated on ways that you can support this initiative and ways that you can pray, specifically.
